INTERACTIVE STATION: THE SACRED CALENDAR (LEVITICUS 23)

=====

You are standing in front of a children's version of the Torah scroll, written by hand in traditional, vocalized Hebrew script characters.

The wooden scroll handles (called Atzei Chayim, meaning "Trees of Life") are resting inside a custom-carved 10-inch workshop stand. This specific display span is engineered to expose exactly two text columns simultaneously, unveiling the complete layout of Leviticus 23 side-by-side:

* THE RIGHT-HAND COLUMN: Details the Spring Feasts (Passover, Unleavened Bread, and Firstfruits)—prophetic rehearsals pointing directly to the timeline of the Crucifixion and Resurrection.

* THE LEFT-HAND COLUMN: Details the Fall Feasts (Trumpets, Atonement, and Tabernacles)—outlining the baseline architecture of the final gathering.

👉 EXHIBIT INTERACTION RULES:

1. You are welcome to gently rotate the wooden handles to see how the text rolls.
 2. Please do not touch the delicate parchment face or paper text surface with your fingers.
 3. Use the silver Yad (pointer hand) resting on the table to track words safely.
